

- #1 Children's hospital in New York
- 2 Ivy League medical schools, both ranked in the top 10
- 1 Singular focus...unparalleled care for children

NewYork-Presbyterian Hospital-Columbia and Cornell represents the collective power of one integrated academic healthcare system that includes two children's hospitals:

NewYork-Presbyterian Morgan Stanley Children's Hospital and NewYork-Presbyterian Komansky Children's Hospital

9 Hospital sites	469 Total beds	44,679 Inpatient admissions
94 Practice sites	199 Med-Surg beds	132,429 Emergency Department visits
	68 PICU beds
	202 NICU beds
$68,398,419 NIH Funding	3 Pediatric Residency Programs
101 NIH Research Project Grants (R01)	191 Pediatric Residents
22 NIH Career Development (K) Awards	30 Pediatric Fellowship Programs
373 Clinical Trials	178 Pediatric Fellows

(2019 data)

Chaired by Two Recipients of the Society for Pediatric Research E. Mead Johnson Award

Jordan Orange, MD, PhD, Pediatrician-in-Chief, NewYork-Presbyterian/Columbia University Irving Medical Center

Sallie Permar, MD, PhD, Pediatrician-in-Chief, NewYork-Presbyterian/Weill Cornell Medical Center

nyp.org/advances-pediatrics

NewYork-Presbyterian Kids

(2019 data)

Cardiology and Heart Surgery

Jenna, 3 open heart surgeries and a heart transplant

1,330

Interventional cardiac catheterization
procedures

128

Neonatal heart
surgeries

697

Congenital heart
surgeries

Neonatology

Jamie, 143-day NICU stay

2

Level IV NICUs

2

Level III NICUs

4

Level II NICUs

202

NICU beds

Organ Transplantation

Ian, liver transplant

50

Years performing pediatric organ
transplantation

30

Pediatric heart
transplants

24

Liver transplants

Hematology/ Oncology/Stem Cell Transplantation

Rayana, stem cell transplant

35

Stem cell transplants

3

CAR T-cell administrations

86

Brain tumors treated

nyp.org/advances-pediatrics